Do you have experience in business and a heart for being part of helping and reaching some of the world's most impoverished?

Community Development Project in rural Bangladesh is looking for someone to join their team as an overall business advisor. The project provides opportunities for some of Bangladesh's poorest women and farmers to make the most of their limited resources, have the opportunity to learn to read and write, provide for the health of their entire homes, and ultimately leave poverty behind. While carrying out these ongoing tasks in the community, the project needs business assistance as they aim to pursue income generating endeavors that will help the project itself become financially sustainable and independent in the coming years.

Does your heart resonate with this part of what God is doing in Bangladesh? Come join His work as a business advisor to Community Development Project!
