

Business Ministries / Administration / Leadership

Could you use your business or professional skills to get involved in mission? Those skills may be the way God takes you to a country where people are open to faith and keen to learn more of the Bible.

There is a growing awareness that God can and does use business skills and experience on the mission field. In SIM we see that God uses various ministry methods and strategies in proclaiming the love of God to the nations.

There is great potential for businesses with kingdom objectives, as well as employment in paid professional positions, to have an increasing and vital role in reaching out to those who do not know Jesus Christ. Professional positions and well-run 'kingdom businesses' can provide fruitful opportunities for sharing the gospel not only by what you say but also by what you do.

Governments of many countries are throwing open doors, often previously closed to traditional missionaries, and are asking for economic and business development in their nations. So, could your skills be used?

SIM also needs people to help lead and run the mission. By serving in one of our offices, you can keep our personnel and ministries flourishing. We need personnel managers, accountants, administrators and field leaders to give direction and support to the vital work of the mission.

Opportunities

Business and Entrepreneurial Advisor

Guest House Manager

All Business Ministries / Administration / Leadership Opportunities

Projects

Asia Forward

Dorcas Ministries of Nairobi

Stories

Missionary Accountants

New West Africa office opened